

Operation Whistle

Nowadays a large number of women and girls are harassed in public places like bus stand, shopping malls, and theatres. They are suffering all these obscene gestures, comments and touches fearing the insult that they will have to face. This helps the culprits to do these kind of activities further. Even police also fails to take necessary support to the victim. All women are to be respected, not to be insulted. In this circumstance, Malappuram police has announced a new project called “Operation Whistle”. If a women or girl feels insulted in any kind of look, touch, comment, gesture, they can whistle in the public to attract the attention of the public that she is somehow insulted. Awareness has been given throughSPC/SPG/NCC/Guide in schools, Kudumbasree, various women associations and notices are published in crowded places. Even public can take the accused person to the nearest police station under the provision of CrPC 43 section in the absence of police at the place.
